

LEBAUDYS IN FLIGHT FROM NURSING HOME

Mme. Jacques and Jacqueline Vanish After Call of Latter's Husband at St. Cloud.

FEUD IN THE FAMILY

Whereabouts of the Widow of 'Emperor of Sahara' and His Daughter Unknown.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau, Paris, April 8.

Mme. Jacques Lebaudy and her seventeen-year-old daughter, Jacqueline, again are in the limelight. They have disappeared from a nursing home in St. Cloud, where they lived under assumed names, following an attempt by Jacqueline's husband, the son of a French private detective, to force her to resume marital relations with him.

They are reported to have been married several months ago, but the French police declare that they cannot find any record of the ceremony.

Last Monday, according to reports, the husband discovered the suburban retreat of Mme. Lebaudy and her daughter and visited the nursing home, accompanied by two friends, but attendants aided the young wife in escaping. The present whereabouts of the two women is unknown, but it is suggested that they have gone to the Riviera. While in the United States Jacqueline's husband acted as secretary to Mme. Lebaudy after she had killed her husband, the self-styled "Emperor of Sahara."

THE NEW YORK HERALD correspondent got in touch with the attorney who formerly had charge of Lebaudy's affairs on this side of the Atlantic, and he said that Jacqueline's husband, Harris, or Sundreau, to use his real name, is now engaged in a definite feud with Mme. Lebaudy and her daughter. The lawyer was unable to give the present address of the Lebaudys. He asserted, however, that Jacqueline and young Sundreau were married in a village near Avignon last January in the presence of two witnesses, but that great secrecy was maintained as to the disposal of the marriage records.

It is believed that divorce proceedings will soon be instituted. This is likely to provoke a demand for a substantial share of the Lebaudy fortune under the French marriage laws.

OLD WOMAN WHO STARTED POGROM IN MOSCOW FREED

Court Reprimands Romanova, Who, as in Beiliss Case, Accused Jew of Slaying Christian Baby for Ritualistic Purpose.

Moscow, April 8 (Associated Press).—The Moscow court has decided to release with a reprimand an old woman named Romanova, brought before the court on the charge of attempting to start a pogrom. The woman recently called attention to an elderly Jew named Gindin, making the crowd believe that he had murdered a Christian baby for religious ritualistic purposes.

She was pronounced by the court to be a victim of superstition, and it was added, she was influenced by recent counter revolutions. Several other persons connected with the incident were given prison sentences.

The case recalls that of the famous trial at Kiev in 1913 of Mendel Beiliss, a Jew, who was charged with killing a boy for ritualistic purposes. Gindin, the employee of a Jewish cemetery in Moscow, earns his living by carrying in sacks to the burial grounds babies who die at the Jewish refugee homes. While on the way to the cemetery with the body of a small boy Gindin, it appears from the testimony, reeled his burden on the sidewalk and the mouth of the bag dropped, revealing its contents.

The Romanova woman and others gathered about him and shouted that he had killed the child in connection with the Passover sacrament. Hooligans joined the crowd and the situation was becoming threatening for Gindin when

'CENSORED' PRAYERS AT ARMS PARLEY DENIED

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Charges of a "censorship" resulting in deletion of the name of Christ from the opening prayer of the arms conference were denied by Secretary Hughes today in a letter to Representative Fess (Ohio), Republican, saying the Japanese delegates knew nothing of the omission and that of course no censorship was exercised.

Mr. Fess had forwarded to the Secretary an inquiry from an Ohio banker saying that a few of our religious friends say that in the Washington peace conference the name of Christ was censored in prayers made before that body in order to please the Japanese delegates.

In his reply Mr. Hughes said: "The narrowness and bigotry exhibited in the criticism to which your correspondence refers are in my judgment so utterly despicable that I do not intend to notice the matter in any way. I shall not say anything in reply to the statements that are made. The best thing is to ignore the matter altogether. Dr. Abernethy's prayer was admirable in every respect."

MAN WHO TRICKED GEN. ALLEN IS BUSY

Otto Stephen Now Offering Secret Codes to Belgian Aviation Officer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau, Paris, April 8.

Otto Stephen, a young German, who succeeded in deceiving Major-General Henry T. Allen, commander of the American army of occupation, into permitting him to pin a Belgian military medal on the breast of the General in front of assembled American troops at Coblenz, and who later disappeared after having borrowed considerable sums of money from American officers, is again in the limelight. During the last few days Belgian aviation commanders at Brussels have received cipher telegrams from the swindler dated Southampton which show that he is in possession of secret military codes, possibly obtained during his career as adventurer in the Rhineland and Constantinople where he was hailed as a veritable comrade in arms. According to a despatch from Brussels, Stephen, who has adopted the name of Otto de Boney, invariably appears wearing a Belgian or a British uniform. He served throughout the war in the German army on the western front and was taken prisoner, but after armistice he convinced the Belgians that he was a native of Malmédy and was released. Thereupon he immediately went to Coblenz with false identification documents and induced General Allen to accept the Belgian decoration. Later he visited the Turkish capital, where he was loaded with expensive presents by the Sultan and members of his court, who wished to obtain the good will of the Belgians.

British officials, however, doubted that he was a real Belgian and sent two soldiers to arrest him. The elusive German, who is now believed to belong to the espionage service, then pulled off his crowning success. Seeing a British General approach he stepped forward and asked for a few minutes' conversation in a private room with him. There he told the General that he had brought in two soldiers who had insulted him on the street. The General promptly offered excuses, promised to punish the offenders and allowed Stephen to escape. Since then he has not been heard of until this week, when evidence shows that he is now in England.

LOUCHEUR OFFERS CURE FOR JUMBLED FINANCE

La Louviere, Belgium, April 8 (Associated Press).—The substitution of new money for depreciated currency in Germany and other countries is the only hope for reorganizing jumbled finances, M. Loucheur, former French Minister of Liberated Regions, told the Association of Central Belgium Industries today. Money, said M. Loucheur, should be based not on a gold standard but on the actual purchasing power within a country. Under this arrangement Germany could balance her budget and pay her reparations. Germany's 125,000,000,000 paper marks ought to be transformed to five or six billion new marks.

FED ON FRENCH BEANS, HE BEGS EXTRADITION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau, Paris, April 8.

"For God's sake take me back to the United States, where I can forget the Cherbouze jail and a daily handout of beans and bread," was the greeting of Pippo Riccardi to Detective Morgan from Pittsburgh when the latter arrived with extradition papers. Pippo is wanted for a long series of holdups in Pennsylvania cities. He was arrested several weeks ago at the request of the Pennsylvania authorities.

At first he declared he would fight extradition, but after the daily regimen of breakfast coffee said to contain more native haricots than mocha and java beans, bean soup for lunch and bean broth with a plate of army stock beans for the evening repast, Pippo's morale weakened. To-day he even protested when the American detective told him the formalities would take another week. He declared he would rather face a sentence of life at hard labor than abundant but changeless menus of beans.

WOMEN WILL TEMPER JUSTICE IN GERMANY

So Argues Author of Bill for Female Judges.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau, Berlin, April 8.

Germany will have more humane justice when women participate in the courts, Herr Radbruch declared in the Reichstag at the second reading of the bill to admit women judges and jurors. Middle class members of the Majority Socialists introduced an amendment providing that when there are three judges two of them must be men.

Easter Bride

Her Bridal Gown—

A radiant creation it should be—a gown so gloriously beautiful as to reflect the happiness of the heart that beats beneath it! At McCreery's will the bride-to-be find gowns such as only the betrothed e'er dream of—visions of sheer loveliness wrought of gleaming satin, gossamer laces or softest crepes. Some are majestic creations endowed with queenly grace. Others are lightsome, girlish affairs—fluttery—vivacious!

Her Bridal Veil—

May she choose one of those entrancing new conceits that frame the beauty of the bride in soft becomingness—such veils as now grace our Veiling Section, where attendants adept in draping and arranging veils are always at the service of the bride-to-be.

Her Slippers, Hose and Gloves—

Since footwear modes are so delightfully fanciful this season, the bride-to-be may choose with propriety frivolous affairs of glittering silvered fabrics, dainty types of soft kid or lustrous satin. And she may add to their loveliness ornaments of brilliants or scintillating slipper rings.

Matching hose she will find here, too, of the rare quality that befits so momentous occasion as her bridal day—lacy, cobwebby styles or simpler kinds. And gloves, too, of French Glace Kid in any length the bridal gown requires.

Entrancing Frocks and Hats for Her Attendants

Bridesmaids' gowns of flower-like beauty, all a-flutter with petals of chiffon in any vivid or delicate color scheme the bride may choose. Also billowy affairs, quaint and picturesque, of crisp taffeta—or clinging styles of crepe. And hats—picturesque or demure, as better suits the scheme, to match or contrast with the chosen costumes.

Her "Going Away" Costume—

We suggest a Costume Suit—a handsome gown-and-cape or gown-and-box-coat combination. A host of captivating affairs awaits her selection at McCreery's.

New Style Notes Sounded In Women's Easter-time Gowns

49.50

This group of new gowns springs many a fashion surprise, including the introduction of long, tight sleeves! These new sleeves (which, by the way, are very smart indeed) appear on several of these new models, though flying and flowing sleeves and quaint peasant ones are more generally featured.

There are styles for street, afternoon and dinner wear, fashioned in altogether new and engaging ways of Canton Crepe, Crepe Roma, Georgette, Crepe de Chine and Roshanara Crepe, enriched with beads or embroidery.

Pre-Easter Sale of Petticoats

With the entree of longer and fuller skirts a petticoat becomes an absolute essential. Long skirts are awkward and ineffective when worn without a petticoat. Hence the importance of this annual event, in which lovely petticoats, especially designed to conform with the new longer-skirted modes, are offered at remarkably low prices.

At 3.95

A glorious array of Petticoats fashioned of Taffeta, Silk Jersey and Radium Silk—flounced or straight-line styles in beautiful colorings.

At 4.95

Petticoats of Radium or Silk Jersey, or of Silk Jersey combined with satin. A wide variety of styles and colors.

At 5.95

Petticoats of Radium Silk with stitched hems, also Van Dyked models. Exquisite colors! They are fashioned of a notably superior quality silk, certain to give long service.
